

Your Four Year Plan

Year One

Get acquainted with the English faculty. Complete the Composition sequence (ENGL A101 and ENGL A102) and work on General Education requirements. Join a club or organization. Get involved with the campus community.

Year Two

In the fall, complete the introductory course ENGL A264: Introduction to Creative Writing and at least one lower-division Survey Requirement (for example, ENGL A284 or ENGL A288). In the spring, complete at least one more lower-division Survey Requirement (for example, ENGL A285 or ENGL A289), and begin taking upper-division writing workshops (such as ENGL A466 for Creative Writing) and other upper-level requirements. Year two is a good time to complete the foreign language requirement. Consider starting a minor or cognate.

Year Three

In the fall, complete at least one lower-division Survey Requirement (for example, ENGL A284 or ENGL A288) and at least one more upper-division major requirement (for example, a Major Authors course). Continue working on General Education requirements. In the spring, complete any remaining lower-division Survey Requirements and continue taking upper-division major requirements. Continue to make headway on the minor or cognate, and complete the Writing Proficiency Portfolio.

Year Four

In the fall, complete the Senior Thesis (ENGL A496) and at least one more upper-division major requirement in Area I-VI. Fill the remainder of your schedule with minor/cognate courses and any remaining general education courses. In the spring complete any remaining upper-division major requirements and all remaining minor/cognate and General Education requirements. The editing and publishing internship may be completed in either fall or spring.

Information about the Major

The Department of English is home to dozens of English majors who work with a dedicated and talented group of 15 faculty members to develop expertise in their chosen field of study. English majors have a number of degree choices, including a Bachelor of Arts in English, a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Creative Writing, and a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Professional Writing. Students pursuing a degree in English have a number of internship opportunities including editorships on the staff of Broken Ink, the UofSC Aiken literary magazine, and The Oswald Review, the UofSC Aiken undergraduate research journal. The Department of English also operates the Writing Center, which offers both paid and unpaid internships to a number of English majors who serve as Peer Tutors each semester.

The English experience at UofSC Aiken is grounded in coursework supplemented with practical experience gained through internships with a cadre of dedicated professors.
